

Sharon Ross, MSN, RN, ACNS-BC, NP
Vice President, Population Health Management

Sharon Ross is a nurse practitioner and the vice president of population health management at The Physician Alliance, one of Michigan's largest physician organizations.

Sharon received her bachelor's degree in nursing from Oakland University and began her career at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, Mich. as a staff nurse. She then moved into a leadership position of a large medical/surgery/oncology unit. After five years of nursing experience, she completed her master's degree in nursing from Wayne State University and obtained her nurse practitioner's license. Having completed her advanced education, she took a position as a clinical nurse specialist in oncology at St. John Hospital and Medical Center in Detroit, Mich. She is board certified as a clinical nurse specialist in adult health.

After a 14-year career as a patient care provider, Sharon moved to ambulatory care by joining the St. John Medical Group, PC as a nurse practitioner to assist in clinical guideline development and project management for quality programs. When The Physician Alliance formed in 2011, Sharon took the executive director role and then was promoted to vice president of physician support services. In 2014, her title was changed to vice president of population health management to reflect the increased focus on this area.

Sharon lives in Brighton with her husband and has two children.
